years of Phillips Collection

For thirty-five years, Mark and Julie Phillips have displayed a striking skill for discovery, from one-of-a-kind treasures to new trends. Starting in Southeast Asia and continuing to Africa, Latin America, Europe and the Pacific Rim, they've searched the world for exciting products for their design-oriented customers. Today, Phillips Collection continues to define global style for the contemporary market. With the same spirit of innovation, they discover design and designers, and match them with an incredible range of production resources developed over decades of travel.

THE JEWELRY OF THE ROOM

We like to think of our pieces as the "jewelry of the room." Designs that stand out and show personality. Furniture, wall art, sculpture, decorative accessories and lighting are all opportunities to give character and style to your space. In the words of Coco Chanel, fashion is all about "the way we live."

CONTRACT

Not just for the home, our products are suitable for commercial use too. Taking a cue from the talented clientele we've had all along, we now have solutions that work in all types of public spaces.

EVERY PIECE A CONVERSATION

We find beauty in the unexpected and share that with our customers.
Whichever piece catches your eye, it will certainly inspire a conversation.
We provide the stories that create lasting memories when you make Phillips Collection part of your world.

HEADQUARTERS. Phillips Collection is based in High Point, NC, where we have our main office and sprawling warehouse/distribution center. We relocated to North Carolina in 2001 after operating for nearly 20 years in New York. We started in a modest facility and as business grew, we moved into a 166,000 square foot facility off I-85 Business, minutes from downtown High Point.

In late 2017, we purchased three additional warehouses blocks from our main facility, which brings our total square footage to just over ¼ million. Being based in High Point gives us unparalleled access to the epicenter of the furniture industry. There is a confluence of industry-specific talent to pull from. Everything from photo studios to skilled labor to furniture shipping experts. We have it all right here and couldn't be prouder to call High Point our home.

WAREHOUSE. There's nothing quite like walking into our warehouse in High Point and seeing our full inventory of one-of-a-kind live-edge slabs and root furnishings. Each is individually photographed and tagged so the table you see online is exactly what you will receive. We make the experience of selecting your table one unparalleled by anyone else in the industry. Each table acclimated for 6 months to a year in our drying rooms before being listed for sale to ensure they achieve the perfect tolerances. Learn more at phillipscollection.com/origins.

We've been working on a metallic version of our Seat Belt chair for several years, and now it's just right! Our obsession with detail had to be spot on, and we found a way to weave a gold thread into our white fabric, and a silver thread into the black. The result really shines! Be sure to reserve your seat!

LOG COLLECTION

Alone or in a cluster, our cast logs continue to be bestsellers! The stools have a great heft to them, but are light enough to be moved around a room. Even better, they double as a side table or small pedestal. RIVER STONES

Winding river bends, luscious green terrain and smooth stones – our travels along the Ayung River in Bali inspired the River Stone Collection. GROTTO

Grotto is the Italian word for caves, which served as the inspiration for this evolution of our popular River Stone Collection. We've reinforced the frame so this cavity could be subtracted from the form and still maintain its rigidity. The interior finish is available in gold and silver leaf, and creates a beautiful two-tone finish for a dramatic effect.

PATINA

LICHEN

VON BRAUN

The Patina Collection starts with copper leafing over a resin form. We use three chemical composites to create different formulas of acid wash finishes- Lichen, Posh and Von Braun. Since the wash is hand-poured and left on for different lengths of time, each piece within a finish will vary in beauty in terms of the coloration and design. When the copper comes in contact with the acid wash formula, a new color emerges that is always remarkable! The form may be the same, but your piece will always be unique.

WEDGE

ELEMENTAL BEAUTY -- created through the alchemy of interaction and transformation. The Patina Collection's unique colors and patterns can only be achieved with a finish of genuine copper. But our sculptural forms are made with a material that is lightweight and durable.

IRON FRAME

First we brought you organic wood root consoles, then we cast them to make them lighter and repeatable.. Next we framed our wood consoles. Now we've gone ahead and cast a new beautiful piece of teak root and encased it in iron. Both sides are finished and unique, like the root it was cast from. Offered in three finishes - gold leaf, silver leaf and faux bois. This console has a usable flat surface that doesn't sacrifice the organic beauty of a reticulated teak root, also making it a great piece to put behind a sofa, against a wall or under a window.

CAST PETRIFIED WOOD

UNREAL! If you've ever tried to move a stump of petrified wood yourself, you probably already know that it's no easy feat! To make it more manageable, we've gone ahead and cast some of our personal favorites from actual pieces we've sourced. To preserve the integrity of the originals, these pieces are weighted but you can still move them around and there is consistency in appearance. Phillips can now do what nature cannot by offering you repeatable items in four different variations.

*Please note that the items below represent the pieces you can choose from. You will get what you see pictured here.

BOSCAGE

The Boscase Collection takes its cues from nature with organic slices of reclaimed wood, squared off and contained in a matte black iron frame. The word Boscase comes from the French word for forest, and inspiration for this collection comes from a cluster of trees. The edges of the teak slices are burnt by a torch and are intricately puzzled together, one piece at a time.

WATERFALL

Each piece from our Waterfall Collection is made from one slab of wood. This artisan technique takes the mitered edge where the cuts occur and folds them at a ninety-degree angle so the grain continues along the sides.

GEOMETRY

An entirely new collection designed with clean, deliberate lines that create a dynamic line of furniture within square and rectangular forms. The use of thinner slabs of wood and mitered edges not only brings down the weight, but it also creates consistency in grain and form while maintaining a natural look.

MOLTEN

What started as an experiment of mixing metal with wood evolved into this stunning collection of furniture and wall art. Molten aluminum and brass are carefully poured into reclaimed wood from India.

The temperature must be carefully controlled; too hot and the wood burns, too cool and the alloy doesn't distribute evenly.

While we keep our tables uniform in size and shape, the color and pattern of the petrified wood will always vary. After all, Phillips Collection can only do so much. MANGO ANYONE?

Our best-selling Butterfly Collection is created with sustainable mango wood. Mango trees only bear fruit for 10 years or so, at which point farmers have to cut them and replant new trees. We then step in and repurpose the wood into gorgeous furnishings. Every piece is hand-carved and finished with butterfly joints. The natural beauty of the woods imperfections really shine through in this collection.

HONEY DRUM

PEOPLE

Made from honey drums, this wall piece tells the sweet story of the people who collect honey in Northern Thailand and an interpretation of the clothing they wear. The drums can only be used a handful of times before they oxidize. In repurposing the metal, they are able to bring in an additional source of income beyond the bees they rely on to produce the honey. This recycled art is not only great on any wall, but it also has a beautiful story behind it.

LOTUS

The matte black finish of these organic wall slices is achieved by actually charring the wood with a blow torch. This technique further enhances the look by creating a cracked, textured surface. Tamarind wood is naturally freeform, so each piece will vary slightly in size and shape, but always within a dimensional threshold. We finish each with a hint of copper leaf, giving them an updated and modern look.

PEARS

Out of a mango tree comes a pear! Mango trees need to be replanted, and so we carve them into solid wood pears, then use an oil-based paint dipped in water to create the marbling pattern. Look, but don't eat them!

PETRIFIED BIRDS

These three birds are hand-carved and polished from solid petrified wood. They are at home on a table, or perhaps perched on a window sill. They've got quite a heft to them so no need to keep them caged... they're not going anywhere!

Our sculptures come in all shapes and sizes and are stunning works of art... but at a fraction of the cost you might expect. At Phillips Collection, we pay attention to every detail to create amazing and accessible art.

SKINNY

Let our sculptures be your guardians of good taste. Their tall and slender silhouettes will add glamour and sophistication to any room. But their gently folded hands convey a spirit of peace and serenity. Constructed from resin with a special topcoat of actual bronze powder, these sculptures are suitable for outdoor use and have a rich depth and luster. A perfect way to add height to any environment without taking up floor space.

ONLY OUR MOST EXPERIENCED ARTISANS have the skills to execute our life-sized wire figures. And as any artist knows, hands, feet and faces are the most challenging parts of the human form. Not for us! We focus on the details—it's one of the many things you love about Phillips. The Crazy Wire Collection is modeled on vintage department store mannequins. The figures are made from metal wire and powder coated for durability.

STONE

A seismic shift in the Earth's plates expose these granite splinters, or Megaliths as they are commonly known. The beautiful un-enhanced shapes formed when the tectonic plates collide are then mounted on a stainless steel base and turned into sculptural art.

RESIN

Lifelike! We cast some of our favorite pieces of splinter stone and made two repeatable sets that look and feel like the originals. We used a concrete and resin composite which feels cool to the touch. The casting allows for a consistent base shape throughout the collection too.

LIGHTING

We don't want your guests to walk into the room and find the lamp to be perfectly suitable for reading. We want them to walk in and say "wow!" That's how we think about lighting here at Phillips Collection. We have a great range of materials and specialize in dramatic table and floor lamps.

A DIFFERENT LIGHT

With our focus on design, is it any surprise that our lighting is sculptural, original and dynamic? At Phillips Collection, we've turned lamps into functional works of art. It's just another one of our bright ideas.

TRANSFORMING THE UNPREDICTABLE BEAUTY OF NATURE INTO AN ELEMENT OF DESIGN.

Origins is a collection of furnishings that range from dining and occasional tables to wall decor, sculpture, lighting and tabletop accessories. The essence of the Origins Collection is taking roots of trees that have either fallen or been cut down years ago and turning them into one-of-a-kind, award-winning designs. We find the beauty of nature in its rawest, most organic form and celebrate all of the “imperfections”. The magic comes from how each piece is selected, considered, cut and finished. Our company founder and trailblazer- Mark Phillips- literally walks through the jungles of Northern Thailand with a convoy of artisans and even a decommissioned fire truck in search of colossal stumps of such fallen trees. They unearth the roots and power-wash the sediment out with the firetruck’s powerful hose. The artisans then judiciously cut the roots into consoles and coffee tables, sculptures, live-edge dining tables and other designs that Origins is now recognized for. The carvers know the best way to yield the most product from each stump, much like how a diamond expert considers the best way to cut a rough stone.

GREEN MISSION

We find our next amazing console or dining table in scarred land from trees cut years ago. In order to make that land usable again, these stumps must be dug up. All remaining tree stumps are tagged by the authorities to allow for removal.

Larger wood pieces we find as a result of land clearing by the Thai government. This is done to make room for new roads and public buildings.

All trees are marked and counted and everything is documented in the paperwork. Each piece is handpicked and after careful cleaning and planning, it's ready to take life as the next amazing piece in your client's home

Mark and Jason Phillips with the root of a Lychee tree

WOOD SPECIES

Chamcha Wood

Chamcha is a fast-growing and exotic subspecies of Acacia that is prized for its richly figured grain and distinct sap line. It is characteristic for these trees to grow crooked and with low and heavy branching. This allows for some of the most interesting and organic forms seen in the world's forests. It is this irregularity that defines the Origins Collection; where we look for those pieces that stand out and turn them into functional works of art.

Teak Wood

Teak is the most durable and weather-proof of all hardwoods and is one of the world's most valuable timbers. It has been historically recognized for its robustness and firmness, and has a beauty and richness that is unrivaled. Teak has an exceptionally pronounced grain that is best accented by a simple clear coat finish. The natural oils the wood produces allows it to be used outdoors year-round, where it develops a beautiful silver-grey patina.

Tamarind

Tamarind is a hardwood with a rich grain pattern and color. The sapwood, around the exterior, is a pale yellow while the heartwood is a dark purplish-brown. The center of the tree is usually hollow, giving our tables a very unique personality. The entire tree is utilized; the midsection of the trunks for firewood and branches for walking sticks.

Mango

Mango wood is a medium-density wood that comes in a variety of colors, ranging from light to dark brown, with some pieces even having a hint of pink. Mango wood is inherently sustainable, being one of the fastest-growing woods in the world. There is a high demand for mango fruit around the world and the trees only bear fruit for the first 10 to 15 years, requiring the trees to be harvested and replanted to meet the global demand for its fruit.

Burl

Extraordinary in every way, from its highly-figured grain to the story of how it comes to be. Burl is nature's most beautiful form of protection. When a tree experiences an unusual stress, the burl is its decades-long response. A burl is the hardest part of a tree. Its rarest and most beautiful aspect. It is often used in veneers for fine furniture, luxury car interior trims or high-end instruments. We seek out the most unusual forms and slice them into solid, generous slabs.

Makha

Makha is a rare hardwood, highly prized for its outstanding finish. The wood is hard, heavy and dense and develops a beautiful patina as it ages. Makha is finely figured and typically reserved for use in fine musical instruments and luxury car interiors. The base of the Makha tree is especially valued due to the massive burls that grow in the root system.

Lychee

Lychee Wood is a hardy wood that is very heavy and dense with a deep reddish color. Originally found in Southern China, the popularity of the fruit these trees bear has resulted in it becoming a prevalent species across Southeast Asia and beyond. In creating this collection, great care was taken to unearth these root systems which were compacted with stone and dirt and remove the sediment so they could be sliced into sculptural furnishings.

Mai Theng

Mai Theng wood, also known as Balau, is a hardwood that is denser than teak and with the reddish coloring of mahogany. Its rich tropical oils allow it to work outdoors, just like teak. This prized wood requires more time in the kiln and stronger saw blades to cut, resulting in less widespread use than teak. By using raw slabs and roots from Mai Theng trees, we have solved the sourcing issues and bring this beautifully-figured wood to homes around the world.

FINISHES

Natural

The natural beauty of the wood, enhanced by an understated and durable catalyzed, satin clearcoat. Each piece is deluxed before it leaves the facility through fine sanding, sealing, spraying and curing. Our natural finish is a celebration of the grain of the wood in its original form.

Perfect Brown

We struggled for years to find the right brown, and it was only during a recent, unfortunate fire in one of our kilns that we discovered the perfect brown. In an attempt to salvage a large dining slab, we scraped off the charred top layers to reveal the unharmed core. We sealed, stained and finished the piece and realized we created a stunning finish. We aptly call it "Perfect Brown".

Grey Stone

Weather worn woods left out in the sun and rain for months at a time take on a wonderfully-aged patina. By cerusing the wood and applying a multi-step finish, we achieve a stone-like effect which preserves the rough texture and rich color of the wood.

Espresso

Our espresso finish is achieved by using our proprietary dark stain. This special treatment brings out a depth to the wood grain without compromising the original luster. A satin clear coat pairs beautifully with the smooth surface of the wood, giving the piece a luxurious and organic feel.

Uber Gloss

The word Uber is defined as a great example of something, and what could be more appropriate when describing this finish. By applying a multi-step, high-gloss finish, our Chamcha wood takes on a brilliance you simply have to see to believe.

Ebony

This ebonized finish is achieved by charring the surface of the tables with a blowtorch, then sealing the piece with a multi-step finish. The satin clear coat is durable yet understated. The resulting charred effect gives these pieces a character of their own, and pairs beautifully with polished silver, brass or black nickel legs.

Bleached

Our bleached finish is our longest and most involved process. It is achieved by using special solvents that cause the heavy oils deep within the wood to come to the surface and be wiped away. The piece must then be washed, solvents reapplied and then be exposed to the sun for weeks. This entire process is repeated as many as four times as needed.

Burnt Edge

When a tree is struck by lightning, the bark is charred to a matte black. Inspired by this sharp contrast of the blackened outer edge to the natural core of these roots, we recreated this effect with a blowtorch.

TABLE BASES

A table base is not to be overlooked! At Phillips Collection, our intention is to utilize as much of the tree and root as possible to help clear the land to make it usable again. In our travels, we find various types of tree roots that we unearth, then cut, clean out, kiln dry, and are then able to repurpose as astonishing tables. Notice how it is the buried interwoven roots that make the most interesting surfaces after they are turned over. Sometimes the parts that don't reveal themselves turn out to be the most beautiful.

COFFEE TABLES

A plethora of wood species and cuts encompass our offering of Origins coffee tables. Tree trunks, roots, slabs, and off-cuts are re-imagined as functional surfaces. Here we are able to treasure the beauty of the prized teak wood root, without taking down new trees. Tamarind, chamcha, lychee and makha trees are also among the woods in this collection. Burl wood, often used on the interiors of high-end cars, is put on metal legs so that it can be a part of your client's room. No, that does not make you better than anyone else, it just means you have a piece to not only enjoy but to also treasure.

CONSOLES

Our consoles are sourced in the same fashion as all the other Origins pieces- by working closely with artisans to carefully identify ways to maximize our use of an unearthed root or fallen tree. Together we hand select and consider the most beautiful and stable places to cut the wood to create consoles that bring two unique finished sides and remarkable conversation pieces to our customers. No two pieces are ever the same, and we love that nature gives you two styles in one piece.

SIDE TABLES

One-of-a-kind doesn't stop with our dining tables, coffee tables or consoles. At Phillips we continue to offer what nature has made with our side tables, using trunks or slices of wood on metal legs in varying heights. Here we have beautiful freeform burl wood slices as side tables. Burl is highly prized because of its unique shape and ring patterns. It grows because the tree has experienced some sort of environmental stress or damage. Isn't it incredible that such a stunning result can come from such a circumstance?

BENCHES

A demand for organic seating has become increasingly popular, and we are glad to be able supply benches to our customers. As always, Origins doesn't shy away from the natural state of the wood, preserving the integrity of the organic form, shape and color, while cutting the piece to be usable. Whether in a foyer, as a stand-alone piece or in combination with one of our chamcha wood slab tables, these benches are a great addition!

ROOT ART

The roots we source are so incredible on their own that they need not simply be turned into functional furniture, but they can also stand alone as art. Mounted on bases, these one-of-a-kind natural roots are true sculptural statement pieces.

The reticulated roots can be placed in a window or used as a room divider. As with our other Origins pieces, our sculptures are finished on both sides, giving you two options and no restrictions on where you place them. There is no wrong way to install these. Just remember that no one else will have the same one you do! If that matters to you...

SUPER BLEACH

Bleached teak wood sculptures capture the feeling of beach-worn drift wood. This finish is in fact our longest and most involved process, using special solvents to reach the heavy oils deep within the teak. The piece must then be washed, re-applied, and then be exposed to the sun for weeks. This process is repeated as many as four times as needed before a durable satin clear coat is put on to protect the piece, ensuring the color and sheen will last for years to come. You won't need extra SPF or a conditioning hair mask to get a conversation piece that looks this good. ONLY FROM ORIGINS.

A COLLECTION MILLIONS OF YEARS IN THE MAKING.

Elements is all about natural, semi-precious stones that we find around the world and fashion into sculptural furnishings and decorative accessories. From tabletop slices of agate to colossal amethyst tables, white quartz and malachite boulders and onyx carved bowls, we have amassed an assortment that will truly dazzle and amaze.

SOURCING ONYX

ONE BOULDER AT A TIME. In a world where an Airbus A380 can takeoff weighing over one million pounds, you'd think that we'd be mass-producing the stunning onyx bowls we bring you in our Elements Collection. That's anything but the case, and a large part of what makes our pieces so special.

In Southern Mexico, a tripod is assembled above a 150-foot vertical drop – clearly not a job for the claustrophobic. Once at the base, only one 200-pound boulder can be brought up at a time. The tripod cannot support any additional weight and the excursion must be carefully controlled, as there is a stream of water below, adding additional challenges to the task.

Once above the rocks and safely on land, the carving can begin. These boulders show no evidence of great beauty on the outside. The artisans work with the natural striations to create the organic forms of the bowls. Each one unique. Each one beautiful.

ONYX

Bowls made of thin layers of different sediments compressed over time – something so spectacular that only nature could do. Skilled artisans hand-carve these stones, following the movement of the striated lines, bringing these one-of-a-kind onyx bowls to your tabletops as extraordinary accessories.

One-of-a-kind item · Style and size varies

We celebrate Quartz in its natural form, whether it's a stalagmite on a base, or a stone cracked open to reveal the familiar crystal forms inside. Quartz is one of the most well-known minerals on earth and has many variations. Isn't it astounding that most of quartz crystallizes form from molten magma? And now it can be a beautiful accessory for any surface.

AGATE

Mounted on an iron base and finished in precious metals, we use thin slices of harvested agate versus stone that is mined to create these tabletop accent pieces. We take what nature perfectly creates and finish the edges in real gold, copper and silver to add an extra glitzy modern flair. Each agate is slightly different, and the larger sculptural slices are rarer to find.
We work with Nature, not against it.

PETRIFIED WOOD

Our petrified wood is sourced in Indonesia along the continental fault lines where there is high volcanic activity. The wood is fossilized through a process of permineralization that takes millions of years to achieve. This “magical” process starts when a tree or forest is smothered through a natural effect—be it a massive earthquake, landslide or volcanic eruption. The lack of oxygen preserves the organic material, and over eons, rainwater and underground rivers pass through the wood, replacing the organic material with minerals. The process happens on a cellular level which preserves the wood grain, growth rings and bark.

The color of petrified wood is determined by which materials replace the organic matter. Carbon creates black. Chromium, cobalt and copper give it a green/blue hue. Iron oxides are red, brown and yellow. Manganese oxides produce pink/orange and blackish/yellow tones. Unearthing the petrified wood is only the first step. Transporting it through jungles to a suitable stonework facility had always been the challenge. We have developed our own resources to cut, carve and polish into beautiful stools, slabs and artifacts.
